

Steve Till-Rogers is the Director of Technology Services with the Edmonton Public Library. The portfolio includes Information Technology, Digital Literacy Initiatives and IT Customer Services.

Prior to EPL, Steve was most recently Vice President, Infrastructure Services with Alberta's largest credit union. Steve holds a Bachelor of Business in Film and Television Production and a Masters of Information Technology from Queensland University of Technology. He's been recognized as a creative pioneer of emerging technologies, fostering innovation in the provision of information systems. Steve's career includes a cross section of experience from delivering broadcast television programming to retail banking solutions.

Originally from Australia, Steve has swapped surf for snow after relocating to Canada with his family in 2004. In the winter you'll find him checking ski conditions while summer is all about camping, hiking and eating lots of festival food.
