Welcome to the

Abbottsfield – Penny McKee Branch

Originally opened in 1997, the Abbottsfield – Penny McKee Branch moved into its beautifully renovated current location in October 2020. Situated in Riverview Crossing and serving Edmonton's ward Métis, the branch offers a bright, modern space designed for accessibility and connection. With over 22,000 books, movies, and other items in its collection, this well-loved neighbourhood library continues to grow as a community cornerstone.

Features and Spaces

Makerspace

The Abbottsfield – Penny McKee Branch features a compact yet well-equipped Makerspace, offering customers hands-on access tools for creativity and digital projects. The space includes two iMacs, a 3D printer, heat press, Cricut vinyl cutter, digital conversion station, sewing machine, and an Xbox, inviting all ages to explore, create, and play.

Public Art

Each spring, a collaborative art project invites library visitors to contribute to a growing piece, encouraging spontaneous creativity and participation from March through May.

Original artworks on display include The Gathering by Lance Cardinal, a multidisciplinary artist and member of the Treaty 8 Bigstone Cree Nation, and a piece by Maxine Noel (Ioyan Mani), a celebrated artist from the Santee Oglala Sioux Nation in Manitoba.

Program Room

The program room, located near the Children's Area, provides an accessible space for community events, workshops, and meetings.
